What's in It for You

What are the key concerns of customers outsourcing to China?

-  Unstable and fading quality
-  IPR (intellectual property rights) issues
-  Bad communications: bad English skills, response delay, reluctance to keep customers informed, etc
-  Problems in coordinating business with several Chinese suppliers

What's in It for You

Acculine's Solutions

- Unstable and fading quality

- strict quality management system (view Acculine Procedure Flowchart)
- continuous effort improving quality management tools, keep listening to customers about quality issues and suggestions on quality management, and translating ideas into on-site operations and realities

What's in It for You

Acculine's Solutions (continuing)

- IPR (intellectual property rights) issues

- we have Non-Disclosure agreements upon customers request;
- we have proven management for protecting IPR in-house;
- we have Non-Disclosure agreements with our subcontractors as well, keeping close eye on suppliers to prevent intentional or unintended IPR violations.

What's in It for You

Acculine's Solutions (continuing)

- Bad communications: bad English skills, response delay, reluctance to keep customers informed, etc

--good English; quick response; having business mindset common with western customers;

--management procedure at place ensuring good communication and keeping customers informed of what is exactly happening to their business over here. (view Acculine Procedure Flowchart)

What's in It for You

Acculine's Solutions (continuing)

- Problems in coordinating business with several Chinese suppliers.

- we offer One-Stop-Purchase Service to manufacturing customers; No nightmares any longer of dealing with many bad English skilled China salespeople who only give you information that does not answer your questions at all.
- we, as your long term strategic China sourcing partner, are able to take care of most of your custom part sourcing activities in China.
